DROWN IN EROTIC! EXTRA!

Tomoharu Okabe (20)

A new recruit mangaka.

Currently trying the best he can in order to become a professional mangaka. Okabe is a late bloomer, who holds naïve ideas and dreams about love.

He may be naïve and clumsy, but once he has decided on something, he will go with it 'til the end.

He always thinks that "sex" is something that should be done only between people who are in love with each other. That's why, when he met the beautiful Tsubaki, he couldn't bring himself to agree with the idea of two people forcing their bodies together just for pleasure.

"Is there such a love that begins from the physical? I want you to do all kinds of dirty things to me..."

☆ THE STORY SO FAR ☆

The new seinen manga, Tomoharu, was made to draw illustrations for the novel of the popular, sensational novelist Tsubaki. As he had no experience in love, Tomoharu was much provoked by Tsubaki's square lines, and even though he tried his best to draw the sexual scenes, his sketches were rejected one after another. In a desperate effort to find the reason, Tomoharu paid Tsubaki a visit. The real Tsubaki was just as seductive in his character as his work, and even though Tomoharu kept denying the feelings of love that had just been born in his body, he couldn't do a thing to calm down the racing beat of his heart.

After Tsubaki's novel was published and received high appraisal, it was turned into a series, and, of course, Tomoharu continued his work as the illustrator. However, the longer the series went, the more Tomoharu couldn't understand its content. He was very worried but after making what happened the last time he went to Tsubaki for help, he decided not to repeat the same mistake and went searching on his own. That's why Tomoharu rented an S&M club, which incidentally turned out to be Tsubaki's headquarters.

There, Tomoharu was picked, tied up and shown to the customers, but in the middle of the show, Tsubaki came to his rescue. Tomoharu realized then that the feeling of Tsubaki's gentle touch upon his body was completely different from the gross feelings when he was touched by that man at the club, and...

"Is there such a love that begins from the physical? I want you to do all kinds of dirty things to me..."
"I'll do even dirtier things to you than in the novels. You had better be prepared. I love you, Tomoharu..." (A love that starts from my own heart)

And so they became lovers, although Tsubaki's perverseness never seems to cease...

Tougo Tsubaki (28)

A popular sensational novelist.

A complete hedonist. He lives after his own lust and has strong sexual appeal. Once he has set his eyes on somebody, no matter what gender, he would never let them go. Known as a seductive man who has never failed in a love battle.

He always denies that "love" is based on pleasure. It doesn't matter whether he fails for that sex partner or not, physical compatibility decides everything. However, his target this time — Tomoharu, — has kept refusing to give into his will. Somehow, Tsubaki has started growing a strong inclination towards that stubborn guy. He wants, now, to capture not only his target's body, but his heart as well.

"You're the first one to have stirred me up like this, Tomoharu. From now on, we'll see our time carefully. Your heart and body will be drowned in pleasure to the point of where you can only think about me."
